

Math is everywhere. You and your child can have FUN incorporating math at home. The more your child practices math the better they will achieve in the classroom.

Count your steps as you walk. You can make it more interesting by counting by 2s, 5s, or 10s,

What time is it? Using your analog clock, ask your child to tell you the time or ask them "what time will it be 15 minutes from now?"

Count money all the time! Reach into your pocket or look at the bottom of your purse and find spare change to have your child count.

Let your child help you cook. Cooking involves lots of counting and measuring. Plus, you will have fun making and eating your creations together.

I spy. Have your child point out patterns, shapes, colors or numbers they see. Whether you are driving, walking, or playing at the playground children will have fun hunting.
